Dear FCC:I have entered the world of radio as it should be with XM Radio. I feel as if I have transcended any level of public radio and/or television, especially when it comes to being able to listen to what I want, when I want, and the offerings on XM Radio are stupendous! I especially cherish the comprehensive traffic that is on 24/7, and the weather, also being broadcast 24/7. The traffic station has allowed me to avoid freeway traffic jams and accidents, and - in doing so - have enabled me to plan the fastest route to and from work and not spend more time than I must sitting in stop-and-go commuter traffic. As time is money, this allows me to be at work in time or even early; being late from being unaware of the traffic costs me money! The broadcast networks only announce the traffic every 10 minutes, and always seem to omit my freeway, especially when there is a traffic tie-up I'm headed into unaware. I pay for having these exception services, and I feel my 1st amendment rights, among others, would be fully violated if XM Radio were to be prohibited from providing this incredible service. How dare you try to stifle the biggest quantum leap in radio services in FM radio was created. PLEASE don't be mercenary; allow the "little people" to have a fighting chance! Thank you for your consideration of my opinion.
